The British Elections.

No Abatement in the Progress of Unionism—The Liberal Rout Complete.

The Hon. Edward Blake Has Been Returned Unopposed for South Longford.

London, July 19.—The Daily News, Liberal, admits that Mr. Morley's defeat, next to Sir William Harcourt's, is the greatest shock which the Liberals have sustained in the present struggle, but it takes it for granted that Mr. Morley will contest another seat.

In its comment on the elections the Times says: "The Rt. Hon. John Morley's rejection was not so much a personal check as the condemnation of a policy. This country's rejection of home rule is the more crushing because, since the retirement of Mr. Gladstone, it has had no thorough-going supporter except Mr. Morley. The blow is final whether Mr. Morley returns to parliament during his life, which is doubtful. The policy with which he has been identified has been shattered to its base."

The Chronicle (Liberal) says Mr. Morley was defeated owing to the treachery of the Parnellites, who supported his opponent, Mr. Crudas. "To describe such conduct as base ingratitude," the Chronicle adds, "would be a mere commonplace. What is far worse is that it denotes an incapacity for political action which, it was believed to be universal in Ireland, would lead us to despair of any genuine political improvement there."

Yesterday's polling, so far as the returns have been received, leave the state of the parties as follows: Conservatives, 258; Liberal-Unionists, 47; total Unionists, 305. Liberals, 73; McCarthyites, 57; Parnellites, 6; Labor, 2; total opposition, 138. There was a lull to-night in election returns, as most of the polls in the counties will not be announced until this evening. The Conservatives, with eleven seats won to-day, have now secured a net gain of 55 seats, giving a majority of 82 in the new house of commons. What returns have been received from the counties indicate that they are following the lead of the boroughs and there is every prospect that the government will have a majority of at least one hundred. The Unionists have gained three seats in Wales. There was a rumor current to-night that there had been a recount in West Leeds to-day, giving Col. North a majority over Herbert Gladstone. The rumor was, however, unconfirmed. Among those re-elected were Campbell-Bannerman, secretary of state for war in Lord Rosebery's cabinet, the resolution to reduce whose salary precipitated the downfall of the government; T. P. O'Connor, Baron de Worms and W. H. Long.

There were riotous scenes in Newcastle to-night. Crowds who were disappointed at the rejection of the Rt. Hon. John Morley paraded the streets and stoned the windows of the houses of prominent Unionist and Conservative newspapers. The mob also attacked persons wearing Unionist favors. The police were obliged to charge repeatedly and to use their clubs. The mounted police are now patrolling the main streets.

At six o'clock this afternoon the following was the result of the elections: Conservatives, 269; Unionists, 48; total, 317. Liberals, 86; McCarthyites, 43; Parnellites, 6; Labor, 2; total, 137. The returns continue to come in slowly and do not indicate that the sweeping victory of the Unionists is being in any way checked in the counties. Mr. Herbert Asquith, who was secretary of state for home affairs, is re-elected for east Fifeshire by an increased majority, and the Midlothian division of Edinburgh, which has been represented by Gladstone since 1880, remained Liberal, although by a decreased majority.

Scotland.—W. F. McCarthy, Con., sitting member for Antrim south, 1450; T. P. O'Connor, Parnellite, sitting member for the district, 2101. At the last election Mr. O'Connor's majority over his Conservative opponent was 1105. To-day it was 651, a loss of 454.

East Toxteth.—Rt. Hon. Baron H. Deworms, Con., sitting member, 6625; C. T. Dawbarn, Lib., 1796.

Lancashire, Southeast Division.—Eccles-Clare, Lib.-Unionist, 5702; H. J. Roby, Lib., sitting member, 5302.

Cardiff.—J. McLean, Con., 8586; Sir E. J. Reed, Lib., sitting member, 7562.

Berkshire, Wokingham Division.—Sir George Russell, Bart, Con.

Galway, East Division.—John Roche, Anti-Parnellite.

Pembroke, Haverford, West Division.—Lieut. Gen. N. W. Laurieat, Con., 2719; C. F. E. Allen, Lib., 2250. A Liberal loss.

Monmouth District.—A. Spicer, Lib., 3743; E. N. Underdown, Q.C., Con., 3589.

Fifeshire, East Division.—Rt. Hon. Herbert M. Asquith, Lib., 4332; G. Glimour, Con., 3616.

Northumberland, Wansbeck Division.—C. Fenwick, Lib., and sitting member, 5020; J. J. Farris, Unionist, 2422.

Durham, Bishop Auckland Division.—J. M. Paulton, Lib., 5062; Markham, Con., 3735.

Lincolnshire, Sleaford Division.—Rt. Hon. Henry Chaplain, Con., 4653; Fox, Lib., 3587.

Yorkshire, West Riding, Holmfurth Division.—H. J. Wilson, Lib., 5011; Rain, Con., 3459.

Wiltshire, Northwest Division.—Sir J. Dickson, Bart., Con., 3808; J. Thornton, 3639.

Staffordshire, Lynchfield Division.—H. C. Fulford, Lib., 3662; Major L. Darwin, Unionist, 3858. Unionist loss of a seat.

Northamptonshire, Middle Division.—Sir J. Pender, Con., 3584; Rt. Hon. C. R. Spencer, Lib., 4892. A Conservative gain.

Devonshire, Torquay Division.—Philpotts, Con., 4205; F. J. Barrett, Lib., 4030.

Dumfries.—Sir R. T. Reid, Q.C., Lib., 3889; W. Murray, Con., 3676.

Suffolk, Stowmarket Division.—I. Malcolm, Con., 5144; Walker, Lib., 3701. This is another gain for the Conservatives.

Kent, Faversham Division—F. G. Barnes, Con., 5738; S. Barrow, Lib., 4557.

Glamorganshire, Middle Division.—Alfred Thomas, Lib., 5012; C. J. Jackson, Con., 2565.

Edinburghshire, Midlothian Division.—Sir T. D. Gibson-Carmichael, Lib., 6930; Major Dairimple, Con., 5631. Liberal majority, 459. This is the seat in the house which Gladstone represented since 1880. At the last election Mr. Gladstone polled 5845 votes to 5155 polled by his opponent, a majority of 690. The election just ended, therefore, shows a loss of 231 votes.

Londonderry.—Knox, McCarthyite, 2032; J. Ross, Q.C., Con., 1969. McCarthyite majority, 40. This is a gain for the McCarthyites. Mr. Ross last election defeated Justin McCarthy by 26 votes.

Essex, Maldon Division.—Hon. C. H. Strutt, Con., 4615; C. Dodd, Q. C., Lib., 4069. By this small majority the Conservatives win another seat.

Elginburgh.—Asher, Q.C., Lib., 1858; G. T. Cordon, Unionist, 1161.

Galway, West Division.—O'Malley, McCarthyite.

Galway, South Division.—David Shehey, Anti-Parnellite.

Sussex, Northwest Division.—J. H. Johnston, Con.

Mayo, East Division.—John Dillon, Anti-Parnellite.

Longford, South.—Hon. Ed. Blake, Liberal and Nationalist, unopposed.

B. C. POTTERY AND TERRA COTTA COMPANY, L'TD.

IN LIQUIDATION.

By order of Hon. Mr. Justice Drake, dated on the 30th day of April, 1895, notice is hereby given that the assets and property of the above named company will be sold by public auction as a going concern, subject to the approval of the Supreme Court, on Saturday, the 20th day of July, 1895, at 12 o'clock noon, at the offices of the company, 44 Government street.

This is a good opportunity for investors as the plant (established in September, 1891), is in perfect working order and condition and the pottery is the only establishment of the kind in the province. The site and plant, situate at Constance Cove, Esquimalt, and other assets of the company, have been valued at $30,000 by a competent valuator.

Further particulars may be ascertained from the undersigned at the offices of the company, or at the offices of Hasler & Duff, solicitors, 21 Bastion St., Victoria.

PRIOR WILL LIVE IN HOPE

Just at Present, Foster Says, the Object is to Get Nineteen "Good" Men.

Planed and Tongue and Grooved Lumber to be Made 25 per Cent Dearer.

Ottawa, July 19.—In the house yesterday afternoon Hon. Mr. Foster said that in view of the state of the order paper he thought it possible that the leader of the opposition and he could agree as to the date of prorogation. He believed that by holding two sessions to-day and Saturday prorogation could be reached by Saturday afternoon and at the latest on Monday.

Speaker White has issued orders to the accountant of the house to begin paying the members to-day.

Hon. Mr. Laurier asked if it was the intention to proceed with the Winnipeg Great Northern bill.

Hon. Mr. Foster said the bill would go on, but he might inform the house that the measure did not make any money grant or anything of that kind. It was simply a slight change in the contract already existing with reference to a transport subsidy of $50,000 a year for twenty years. The superannuation bill would go until the next session. All the other bills with the exception of one, to permit salmon-netting in non-tidal waters, would be pressed.

Hon. Mr. Laurier said the opposition had several questions of great importance which they desired to bring up, but as parliament was now in the dog days they would have to adjourn those matters until the 4th of January next. (Laughter).

Mr. Mara's suggestion of a bounty on silver lead smelting was made to apply to gold and silver ores.

Hon. Mr. Foster gives notice of a change in the tariff. Planed, tongued and grooved lumber are to be dutiable at 25 per cent. instead of free as now. The change has been made to meet the recent ruling of the treasury department at Washington. This lumber will be free again if the United States makes it free. Fresh salmon will be placed on the free list if they are admitted free into the United States.

When the house met to-day at 10 o'clock Ouimet moved the second reading of an act to amend the companies act. He explained that it provided for extending the time for holding real estate by companies in Manitoba from 7 to 12 years in conformity with legislation passed by that province. The opposition protested against the bill, holding that it was within the jurisdiction of Manitoba, and that Canadian companies acting within the jurisdiction of the province must take their law from the province and not from the Dominion. Laurier asked for the yeas and nays. The bill was read a second time on a vote of 50 for to 24 against. The bill was read a third time.

On the motion to go into committee on ways and means, Prior (B.C.) made a brief speech showing that British Columbia paid three times as much revenue per capita to the Dominion treasury as Ontario, and for every six dollars per head paid by all the Dominion outside of British Columbia that province paid nineteen dollars per head. His object was to show that his province was entitled to representation in the cabinet. Foster said that the idea was to get 13 of the best men in the Dominion. He asked Prior to live in hope and grow old. Davin agreed with the first remark, but objected to waiting until Prior's golden locks grew grey.

Corbould, in the house to-day, refuted the statement made by Moylan and Fitzsimmons against him. He showed that there was no truth in the attack upon his character. Tupper regretted the appearance of Moylan's report. There was not a single word of truth in the insinuations made either by Moylan or Fitzsimmons and nothing in the department to show that there was. In answer to Martin, Tupper made the extraordinary statement that Fitzsimmons was not dismissed but allowed two months leave of absence to prosecute with celerity the libel suit against the Columbian. Burke, of the Stoney Mountain penitentiary, Manitoba, was to take his place and possibly Fitzsimmons might yet go to Stony Mountain. Tupper said he would await developments before doing anything.

Sir Richard Cartwright sympathized with British Columbia and said that if Prior had kicked a little sooner he might have received a controllership instead of cabinet minister. The matter dropped.

Lavergne moved a resolution protesting against the leasing of a new building for a postoffice in Laurentides, a small town in Quebec, which was, as he said, done with a view of taking away from the brother of the leader of the opposition the postmastership of that place, which he had held for many years. Ouimet said he did not know that the postmaster was a brother of Laurier's. Mr. Mills made a strong protest against this hidden class of political warfare. Lavergne's motion was lost on division.

Taylor read from the Canada Farmers' Sun an article calling him and some other members cowards. He was not a coward and would meet the editor of the Farmers' Sun anywhere. (Laughter.) He was called to order by the Speaker several times for reading the article, which was against the rules of the house, but he managed to get it in Hansard. The house rose at 1:30 p.m.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

Heavy Break in Leather—Sugar Moved as the Clique Desired.

The volume of business on the stock exchange yesterday was light. The share market was irregular, as of late, the industrials occupied the chief share of speculative attention. The grangers alone, of the railway group, appeared prominent in the transactions. Americans were neglected on the London market and the stagnation abroad reflected in the light trading here for the arbitrage account. Chicago dazzled the market to-day in point of activity. Leather, preferred, made the heaviest break of the list, the weakness being due to the semi-official announcement of an intended increase in the capital stock of $8,000,000, to be equally divided between common and preferred shares, of which, however, it is said only $2,000,000 will be issued immediately, that amount being covered by bark lands owned by the company. Sugar moved as the clique which has been manipulating it desired, there being no special news affecting the property. Favorable crop reports induced the short interest in grangers to cover and there were a few western purchasing orders on the board, which helped to strengthen these shares; the railway list, as a rule, was fairly well held. Little attention was paid in speculative circles to the gold export question. The general feeling is that there can be no serious drain on gold in view of the near approach of the time when produce bills will appear in sufficient quantities to afford a basis for all sterling exchange needed.

At the opening trading was moderately active and a firm tone prevailed, but no special changes in prices took place beyond a gain of 1¼ per cent. in cotton oil. The railway list, which was neglected during the first hour, came into request, and under the lead of the grangers' advance of ¼ to 1¼ per cent. a general rise in values took place around the delivery hour, which was most marked in the industrials. The market closed heavy in tone, the important changes of the day being: Declines in leather, preferred, 1¾; sugar, 1⅜.

THE STATE OF BUSINESS.

Henry Clews' Review of the Week. United States Finances.

New York, July 13.—Just now there are two points of view from which to judge the stock market; the distant outlook and the immediate future. The former is full of promise, the latter is at least suggestive of caution.

It must be held in mind that railroad stocks have had a remarkable advance of about 10 to 15 points. Some persons will argue that this has been no more than justified by the improvement in general conditions; others will reason that it was largely in anticipation of improvements to come; others again will attempt to demonstrate that the rise was engineered by those who had stocks to sell; while not a few will detect spots of weakness, such as are inevitable from a prolonged movement in one direction like the late rise. Each of these arguments has in itself a degree of truth. In my own opinion the market for railroad shares has not had a strong enough test to justify a further advance under present conditions. So far, the bears have directed their attention chiefly against the industrials and, as railroad stocks are strongly held, no concerted movement has been made against them. Of course, this is because the position of the railroads is intrinsically strong; but it does not assure them from reactions of moderate proportions; especially as the bears have been strengthened by the declines in the industrials, in wheat, cotton, etc. There is also a good deal of fear about the future attitude of the Loan Syndicate in its control of the exchange market, which, while unwarranted, has its effect among both the timid and the prudent. Exchange is very high owing to the scarcity of commercial bills, and the well-informed would be neither surprised nor alarmed if a moderate amount of gold was shipped to Europe; as it may be some weeks before bills are drawn in anticipation of cotton or grain shipments. The effect of gold shipments upon the stock market in its present condition would be somewhat uncertain. The position is such that it might easily be temporarily used to advantage by the bears, provided the latter showed sufficient courage. Other factors which discourage the bull movement for the time being are these: The crops are not yet beyond danger; we are in the period of midsummer quiet; the money market is likely soon to harden, and London has not yet fully digested the large amounts of securities taken during the last five months; all of which are considerations which I mind carefully in speculative operations.

Of the distant future, it is needless to say, it continues highly promising. Crop reports show continued improvement, and at the lower prices there are better prospects of exports which are needed to prevent gold shipments, unless we should be fortunate enough to record securities in continued large amounts. We are assured of a bountiful corn crop, and for all our cereal products are promised better prices than a year ago. Western jobbers are, without exception, preparing for a heavy fall trade; and it is not to be supposed after recent lessons in overtrading that they are making such liberal purchases of boots, shoes, dry goods and clothing without knowing that the farmers will be compelled and able to buy more freely than they have been doing. Even more important that the better agricultural outlook is the great industrial revival, which has made such phenomenal strides since February last, and which is destined to continue for months to come with little interruption. Quite recently "Bradstreet's" estimated that the wages of a million workers has advanced 10 per cent. The effect of this and the large number of formerly idle hands now employed, has not yet been seen. It means a much larger consumption of all the necessaries of life. Every year the United States becomes more important as an industrial country. Its industrial and commercial growth is more rapid than its agricultural development; and in estimating the future we must give these new divisions of our national occupations greater weight in our conclusions. Our great railroad systems are no longer so exclusively dependent upon crops as formerly; for grain is often carried at unprofitable rates, and traffic in manufactures is constantly increasing. Unquestionably the present great trade revival means vastly more to the railroads than the crop situation; although the latter is of course still of great importance for both its direct and indirect influence upon traffic. Every indication points to unusual activity this fall; and the iron trade, always one of the surest barometers, is pointing in that direction with exceptional persistency. As for doubts about the syndicate and treasury outlook, they are without foundation. No alarm need be caused if the treasury is compelled to borrow a few more millions. Congress will soon be obliged to provide new sources of revenue; and there is a probability that the improvement in business will increase the public revenue, which has not been taken into account. The vital point is the gold reserve. That is well above the limit, and not at all likely to be intrenched upon. Alarm about the silver craze is equally unnecessary; for it is already effectually broken; and nobody well informed or of experienced judgment supposes that the syndicate is going to juggle with the exchange market in order to force a new bond issue. The profits on the latter would be nothing in comparison with the injury that such a trick would work in other directions; to say nothing of the loss of honor and reputation which seen eminent bankers would not think of incurring.

PAN-AMERICAN CONGRESS.

Assembled in Session at Toronto—Important Speeches Delivered.

Toronto, July 18.—Delegates to the Pan-American congress of religion and education have been arriving on every train from the States. The session was opened this afternoon in the Pavilion Hall in the presence of a couple of thousand people. Warring Kennedy, mayor of the city, read an address of welcome and the delegates were also welcomed by W. B. McMurrich and Rev. Thomas Sorris, Toronto, Rabbi Lazarus and others. Rev. Samuel C. Smith, of St. Paul, president of the congress, replied and speeches were made by Mrs. Lydia Von Finklestein, Mountford, and Mrs. Charles Hanrotin, Chicago. The Numan Brotherhood, of Buffalo, sent the following dispatch: "Buffalo sends greetings to the most distinguished gathering the world has ever beheld."

To-night Hon. C. C. Bonney, ex-president of the World's Fair religious and educational congress, gave an address on the "New movement for the peace and unity of the world." The president, Rev. Samuel C. Smith, of St. Paul, gave his inauguration address, and Rev. William Clark, Trinity University, Toronto, spoke on the religious congress and their responsibility. A good deal of interest is being taken in the address to be delivered to-morrow evening by Archbishop T. Ireland, of St. Paul, on the rights and duties of labor.

Weak and Nervous

Whenever the body has been weakened by disease, it should be built up by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this:

and weak. Fortunately a friend who had used Hood's Sarsaparilla with great benefit, kindly recommended me to try it. I did so and a perfect cure has been effected. I am now as well as I ever was, and I would not be without Hood's Sarsaparilla in my house for anything." MRS. G. KNOX, 245 Manning Ave., Toronto, Ont.

THE PRAIRIE PROVINCE.

Rainstorm Interferes With the Exhibition—Oother News.

Winnipeg, July 18.—The attendance at the Winnipeg industrial exhibition today was practically nil, owing to the heavy rainstorm which set in early this morning. Owing to the storm all special attractions were postponed till to-morrow.

The Tribune to-night intimates that the Nor'Wester newspaper is shortly to disappear from the journalistic arena.

At the joint Patron-Prohibition convention here the following resolution was carried most enthusiastically: "Resolved, that this convention is unalterably opposed to any change in the present school system of Manitoba."

The reeves and representatives of the municipalities of Manitoba met here this evening, when resolutions were passed that both the local and Dominion houses be memorialized to have crown lands made liable for taxation from the time the land is entered upon or the first payment is made.

The jury which is investigating the death of J. F. Torrance at Rossland examined the premises and body and gathered up his papers and bottles. The general impression is that death was due to an overdose of chloral.

BULGARIA'S DEAD STATESMAN.

Expressions of Condolence from Queen Victoria and the Prince of Wales.

Constantinople, July 18.—Although the newspapers here are prohibited from making any reference to the murder of M. Stamboloff, the Bulgarian statesman, the people are wildly indignant and are not sparing in their censure of the police and government of Bulgaria.

Carlsbad, July 18.—When informed of the death of M. Stamboloff, Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria telegraphed to the Bulgarian statesman's widow, saying, "Filled with indignation and sorrow and only desirous in the presence of this terrible event of remembering the eminent qualities of him who rendered such memorable service to Bulgaria, I once more join my most profound and sorrowful condolence with your tears and pray God to support you in this fearful trial and grant you the consolation of the thought that history will preserve in eternal memory the patriot whom an abominable outrage has torn from the affections of his friends."

Sofia, July 18.—Queen Victoria and the Prince of Wales have telegraphed their sympathies to Mme. Stamboloff. The government has offered ten thousand francs for the capture of the murderers.

London, July 19.—The Times this morning says of the dead statesman: "M. Stamboloff was one of three brilliant statesmen produced in the Balkans in the last half century. With little of the veneer of civilization, with little distinction or refinement, he concealed beneath a rough exterior a natural tenderness and delicacy of feeling which only those who knew him intimately could appreciate. There was no humbug or affectation about him. He was a man and a great man. Whatever his defects may have been there was never any doubt of his patriotism and devotion to his country."

THE PEITZEL MURDER.

The Inquest on the Little Bodies Will be Held To-night.

Toronto, July 18.—Owing to a misunderstanding on the part of the jurymen as to the time and place the inquest on the body of Nellie Peitzel, the younger of the murdered girls, which was to have opened to-night, did not proceed. The coroner has fixed to-morrow evening for the inquest to open. Mrs. Peitzel, the wife of the murdered man, arrived in Toronto to-night by the Canadian Pacific railway from Chicago. She is in a terribly exhausted state and refused to be interviewed. The bodies of the two girls are being made as presentable as possible, and if her health permits she will view them to-morrow. She is at present at the Rossin House, under medical care.

Philadelphia, July 18.—A French Canadian, stoutly built and with black whiskers, called to-day at the office of W. A. Shoemaker, Holmes' counsel. After a conference with the lawyer, who positively refused to give the name of his mysterious visitor, it was stated that the stranger had arrived to-day from Toronto, and says that a complete alibi can be proven for Holmes when the proper time comes.

Washington, July 19.—The Times prints the outlines of the manifesto to be issued by General Master Workman Sovereign, of the Knights of Labor, for the boycott of all national banks. It will be addressed to the Knights of Labor, Farmers' Alliance, People's Party, Reform clubs and kindred societies, reading: "The wrongs of the toiling masses and their sufferings at the hands of the money-making power," and calling for a boycott on national bank notes. All dealings between individuals go into effect September 1st.

Ishpeming, Mich., July 19.—The miners' strike presents no material change, the strikers not yet being thoroughly organized; daily meetings are being held.

Ladner, Wyo., July 19.—Gov. Richards telegraphed General Shelden, commander of company B, N. G., to place his company under arms subject to orders at a moment's notice. He has ordered him to procure caddies and pack horses for the command in readiness for a campaign against the Indians in Jackson's Hole, if necessary.

Land Registry Act.

In the Matter of the Application of Peter Steele for a Certificate of Indefeasible Title to the following portions of Sections XXXI and XXXII., Esquimalt District, viz.:

All that piece or parcel of land forming a portion of Section XXXII., Esquimalt District, together known as Lots 20 and 21, according to a survey and plan made by R. Homfray, C. E., and more particularly described as follows: To wit: Commencing at the N. E. corner of said section, thence running westerly along the northern boundary of said section 300 links, thence south 475 links, thence easterly to the eastern boundary of said section, 351 links; thence northward along the said boundary to the point of beginning, 502 links.

Also that piece or parcel of land known as Buckley's Orchard, and forming a portion of Section XXXI, Esquimalt District, more particularly described as follows: To wit: Commencing at a point on the northern boundary of the said section 14 feet six inches distant from the N. E. corner of before mentioned Section XXXII., thence running easterly along the said boundary 460 feet, thence southerly and parallel to the eastern boundary of the first above described piece of land 325 feet, thence at right angles west 350 feet, thence north to the point of beginning, 198 feet.

Also all that piece or parcel of land forming another portion of Section XXXI., Esquimalt District, bounded as follows, viz.: On the west by the last described piece of land known as Buckley's Orchard, on the south by a line drawn from the south easterly corner of said last described piece to the Craigflower road and parallel to the northern boundary of the said Section XXXI., to the eastward by the Craigflower road, and to the northward by the northern boundary of said Section XXXI.

NOTICE is hereby given that a certificate of indefeasible title to the above lands will be issued to Peter Steele on the 30th day of September, 1895, unless in the meantime a valid objection thereto be made to me in writing by a person claiming an estate or interest therein or any part thereof.

THIS IS IT

KILLED BY WILD BEASTS.

Many Victims of the Forest Animals in India Yearly.

A subject, treated by the government of India, is the destruction of life by wild animals. Here, too, the death rate is formidable, and the efforts to reduce it have been nearly as fruitless. In 1891 the number of persons killed was 2861; in 1892, 2963; in 1893, 2804. Bengal again heads the list with a mortality in the last mentioned year of 1099; Madras and the Central provinces follow with only 274 and 256 respectively. The chief offender is, of course, the tiger, who was responsible for 422 of the deaths in Bengal, and for 124 out of the 178 that occurred in Burmah.

In the Punjaub, 13 out of the 37 deaths were caused by the bite of mad dogs. Among cattle the destruction from wild beasts is enormous, amounting, in 1891, to 70,822; 1892, 81,068, and in 1893 to 85,131, of which 35,826 are returned as killed by tigers, and 34,404 by leopards. The increase is ascribed to the extermination by native shikaris of the deer, which are the natural prey of these beasts. But the figures are hardly to be trusted; one collector in the Northwest observes the curious fact that more deaths of cattle by tigers were reported in his province in Christmas week than in all the rest of the year.—Chambers's Journal.

VIOLINS AT AUCTION.

Prices Realized Are Far Lower Than Those Told of in Stories.

I have more than once remarked that the extravagant prices so frequently mentioned in print as the value of old Italian violins are never reached under the purifying fire of the auction room. We hear of this or that fiddle being worth its £2000 or £3000, and of another violin being bought (for presentation) for the ridiculously low sum of £1500. But it is, I believe, the truth, and, if so, it is a remarkable fact, that even under the most favorable circumstances no violin has ever at auction realized anything like £1000. Last week there was an auction at Puttick & Simpson's of undoubtedly genuine instruments from the collections of Davis, Cooper, Stanistreet, Fiuzi, and others. The highest price realized was for a Strad, of 1728, which went for £300—a serious drop on the £2000 or £3000 of the newspaper paragraphists. A fine Amati went for £145, an F. Ruggeri of 1698 for £69, an A. and H. Amati of 1618 for £75, and so forth. Some excellent old Italian violins were sold for under £50, and this, I believe, was quite up to their real value. The moral, I suppose, is that if I want to buy a violin, I shall be wise to buy it at auction. On the other hand, if I want to sell one, the highest price I can obtain is—by newspaper paragraph.—London Truth.

THIS SHERIFF HAD NERVE.

How Becker Took Lawyer Early Through a Crowd.

"The bravest act I saw during my residence in Leadville," said Peyton R. Hall, who spent upward of ten years in the camp, "was when the mob tried to lynch a man and the sheriff protected him."

"A lawyer named Early was trying a case before Justice of the Peace De Long. A dispute arose between him and the counsel on the opposing side, and the latter pulled his gun and attempted to shoot Early. Before he could pull the trigger—or, at least, before he could hit Early—the latter, whose marksmanship was somewhat better, fired across the table and killed his opponent. The shooting was altogether justifiable, but people were sick of such tragedies, and in less time than it takes to tell it a mob formed and an attempt was made to lynch the lawyer. Among the crowd were several policemen, who, instead of trying to quiet the outbreak, were as loud as the rest in shouting for Early's blood, and the situation was critical to a fine point.

"Early had not yet left the court room, and nothing on earth stood between him and a horrible death, when a man appeared on the scene whose nerve was sufficient to paralyze the clamorous mob and save the lawyer's life. The court room was but a short distance from the county jail, and the outbreak had been witnessed almost from its starting by the sheriff. This official was a big German named Peter Becker, who, before he was elected sheriff, ran a saddlery shop on Chestnut street. Becker, as soon as he saw the mob forming, ran up stairs into the court room, where he found Early and the dead man, and was briefly informed what had transpired and the danger to which Early was exposed.

"'Do as I tell you,' Becker said to Early, 'and I'll take you to jail and no mother's son shall touch you.'

"The mob was just about to rush up stairs when they saw Early and the sheriff coming to meet them. Early was in front and Becker behind, both arms around the lawyer's waist and each holding a sinister-looking six-shooter pointing straight at the crowd, his eyes watching every movement like a hawk over Early's shoulder. He was using the lawyer's body as a breastwork, while, at the same time, he was protecting him with his revolvers. When they reached the foot of the stairs Becker told the mob to fall back.

"'I'm going to take this man to jail' he cried out above the confusion. 'He is my prisoner and is going to be protected if it takes my life. You can't kill him without killing me, and if any man lays a hand on him while he is in my custody, I'll drop him in his tracks! Now clear the way.'

"He pushed Early before him and passed into the crowd, the sheriff walking step by step behind the prisoner, and the two moving like one man. The foremost of the mob found the sheriff's gun barrel frowning them right in the eyes, and made room as did the men next behind. And one after another, while the revolvers were pointing right and left and straight ahead as though on a sensitive swivel, the crowd pressed aside and formed a narrow lane through which the sheriff and his prisoner passed into the street and reached the jail unmolested.

"It was the grittiest piece of business I ever saw, and it won with the mob. Early was tried and acquitted with an unanimous verdict, and at last accounts was practising in Kansas City."

FROGS CHANGE THEIR COLOR.

An Observant Jerseyman's Contribution To the Darwinian Theory.

Within a week a curious change has taken place in the color of the frogs in the observant Jerseyman's little ponds. These frogs are now about six inches in length of body, and when their hind legs are extended they are at least a foot long. They were brought to the ponds three years ago, when they were only about two inches long. From that time up till about a week ago all but one were of a dark muddy green, and some of them were almost black. The exception was of a light, grassy green, and he was considered a distinguished member of the frog colony by the Jerseyman's son, who takes more interest in the study of bugs and birds and reptiles than he does in books. He knows each of the frogs individually, feeds them for amusement, and knows each one's particular parents and habits.

Within a week he says every one of the big frogs has turned lighter in color. He says he can account for this only upon the theory that they have adjusted themselves to a change in their surroundings. The bottom of the pond is of a dark, soft and exceedingly light mud. The edges are covered with a growth of grass and light flowers, which is very much thicker this year than ever before. The grass lies out upon the water in a thick mat for a foot in width all around the ponds. The frogs lie basking within the border of grass during almost the whole of each day, and their changed color just fits them to remain there unobserved.—New York Sun.

EDITORS, CLERGYMEN, PHYSICIANS

TESTIFY.

Men and Women in all Walks of Life Tell of the Remarkable Cures Wrought by South American Nervine Tonic.

SIX DOSES WILL CONVINCE THE MOST INCREDULOUS.

EDITOR COLWELL, OF PARIS, ONT., REVIEW.

Newspaper editors are almost as sceptical as the average physician on the subject of new remedies for sick people. Nothing short of a series of most remarkable and well authenticated cures will incline either an editor or a doctor to seriously consider the merits honestly claimed for a medicine.

Hundreds of testimonials of wonderful recoveries wrought with the Great South American Nervine Tonic were received from men and women all over the country before physicians began to prescribe this great remedy in chronic cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous prostration, sick headache, and as a tonic for building up systems sapped of vitality through protracted spells of sickness.

During his experience of nearly a quarter of a century as a newspaper publisher in Paris, Ont., Editor Colwell, of The Paris Review, has published hundreds of columns of paid medicine advertisements, and, no doubt, printed many a gracefully-worded puff for his patrons as a matter of business, but in only a single instance, and that one warranted by his own personal experience, has he given a testimonial over his own signature. No other remedy ever offered the public has proved such a marvellous revelation to the most sceptical as the South American Nervine Tonic. It has never failed in its purpose, and it has cured when doctors and other medicines were tried in vain.

"I was prostrated with a particularly severe attack of 'La Grippe,'" says Mr. Colwell, "and could find no relief from the intense pains and distress of the malady. I suffered day and night. The doctors did not help me, and I tried a number of medicines, but without relief. About this time I was advised to try the South American Nervine Tonic. Its effects were instantaneous. The first dose I took relieved me. I improved rapidly and grew stronger every day. Your Nervine Tonic cured me in a single week."

The South American Nervine Tonic rebuilds the life forces by its direct action on the nerves and the nerve centres, and it is this notable feature which distinguishes it from every other remedy in existence. The most eminent medical authorities now concede that fully two-thirds of all the physical ailments of humanity arise from exhaustion of the nerve forces. The South American Nervine Tonic acting direct upon the nerve centres and nerve tissues instantaneously supplies them with the true nourishment required, and that is why its invigorating effects upon the whole system are always felt immediately. For all nervous diseases, for general debility arising from enfeebled vitality, and for stomach troubles of every variety no other remedy can possibly take its place.

BRITAIN'S CHANGE OF RULERS.

The electoral battle in Britain has now proceeded so far that a very substantial victory for the Conservative Unionist party is certain. In 1892 the English boroughs went against the Liberals, who were enabled to score a success by the unexpected support they received from the counties. This time the boroughs have gone still more solidly to the Conservatives and Unionists, and the county vote could not begin to save the Liberals even if it were as favorable to them as in 1892. The counties, however, have the same tale of Liberal loss to tell as the cities and boroughs. Probably the Tory-Unionist majority in the new House will exceed 150, and the Tories by themselves will a good deal outnumber all the other parties and groups. This later fact may not be altogether comforting to the section led by Mr. Chamberlain. It is hard to see why the reaction against the Liberals should be so extensive. A reaction was to be expected, and for a year or two there were plain signs of a coming Liberal reverse, but few would have been so rash as to predict a change so radical. Objection to home rule is put forward as the great reason for the change, but we should hesitate to accept the theory that the British people have become mercurial enough to make a complete somersault on this one question in the course of three years. Home rule was the dividing question in 1892, and was made even more prominent than in the present contest. Probably the retirement of Mr. Gladstone and the unsatisfactory leadership of Lord Rosebery have done more than anything else to cause the Liberal discomfiture. A period of discipline will probably do the party good and put it in better condition for the next struggle. It is not at all likely that the Conservatives and their allies will be able to hold on to power for more than one parliament.

THEIR CHOSEN ROAD.

Notwithstanding the fact that quotations from the rebellious Conservative papers are disagreeable to our neighbor, we feel it advisable to reproduce one more extract from the Toronto World. Whether Ontario Conservative opinion be right or wrong on this question, it is important to know just what Ontario Conservative opinion is, for evidently that will be a potent factor in the final settlement. The World and Spectator are more likely to be correct indicators of that opinion than a paper like the Mail and Empire, which is an organ pure and simple and makes no claim to independence. The last issue of the World to hand has the following editorial remarks:

"Parliament is free to act in the case as it sees fit. Parliament is not bound to act in any jurisdiction assigned to it. Parliament is restrained in many directions, but in no way is it forced. We believe that this contention is sound, and a discussion of it in parliament will enable the public to reach a sound conclusion on the situation, which will now begin throughout Ontario, the Northwest and the Maritime provinces against the passage of any law next session. We believe that no such bill can be carried. We believe there will be such an uprising against the Bowell cabinet that, while they may redeem their pledges to introduce the law, they will be defeated by Conservative votes when they attempt to carry it. The administration one and all have committed themselves to such a law notwithstanding the protests of many of their followers from Ontario; notwithstanding the protests of nearly every Conservative paper in Ontario; notwithstanding the dangers pointed out by the Montreal Gazette; and in opposition to what is known to be the unchangeable opinion of the great bulk of the Conservative voters in the Maritime provinces, in Ontario and in the Northwest. They have chosen to stake their political life on the stand they have taken. They are like men who have locked themselves in a cell and thrown the key out by a grated window, to Mr. Greenway of Manitoba, who is taking directions from Mr. Laurier of Ottawa. It is not likely that they will unlock the door, but it is on their generosity and on it alone that they hope to avoid a conflict with their followers from Ontario and the Maritime provinces. Ontario will never consent to a law that will coerce Manitoba. Neither will the Maritime provinces consent to such a law, for if it is ever passed there will be a demand at the very next session for a law coercive of New Brunswick, and then right through those provinces which now see fit to get along without separate schools. Do Sir Mackenzie Bowell and his colleagues know where the road they have chosen leads to?"

The government stands pledged to remedial legislation, and will be defeated by its own followers if it attempts to make good its pledge; that is the situation as the independent Conservative papers see it. If the government had chosen its course from patriotic motives it would at least have had the satisfaction of prospective martyrdom in a good cause, but now it has the galling consciousness that it has over-reached itself in the prosecution of an unworthy political scheme.

PRESIDENT KER'S ADVICE.

President Ker, of the board of trade, in effect told the business men of Victoria that if they wanted to retain their leading commercial position they had to work unitedly. The tendency of recent events had been to divert trade, in certain lines, to other cities, which are probably more enterprising or certainly more eager to secure customers. The mining industry of Kootenay and Cariboo is being rapidly developed, and as a consequence new and profitable markets are being established. These are exploited most persistently and successfully by rival cities. The ability of Victoria merchants to compete with those of Winnipeg, Spokane or other cities was shown in the sale of supplies, under competition, to a firm of railway contractors, and generally by the success that a few pushing and intelligent salesmen meet with in the new districts. All roads, Mr. Ker seemed to think, lead to Victoria, and it remains for our commercial men to cause a large share of the new commerce to pass over them. I was implied rather than expressed It was implied rather than expressed that the policy of "every man for himself" had prevailed too long for the good of the city, and that concerted action was necessary to bring the distant markets nearer. Mr. Ker referred to the necessity for a telephone line to Vancouver, which is now in connection with many of the principal cities of the Northwest, and also to the urgency for improved and cheaper transportation facilities. There is but one opinion on the latter point, but how best to accomplish the object desired is the difficulty. Most assuredly nothing will be done if disunion and indifference prevail. The map of the world is dotted with cities that failed to take advantage of their opportunities, and which, notwithstanding the superiority of their geographical situations, have been surpassed in the race by others less favored by nature. The city that pursues the rest-and-be-thankful policy, whose citizens are not aggressive, or imbued with the true commercial spirit, will go behind in a race with rivals less advantageously situated and less wealthy, but who are at all times united in purpose, loyal to themselves, enterprising, and never let a chance pass to extend their influence and business.

If Mr. Ker succeeds in arousing our business men, and our wealthy men, to a correct appreciation of the situation and to what may be achieved by unification of effort, and imbue them all with the belief that Victoria's destiny depends primarily upon her citizens, and not altogether on her unequalled natural advantages, he will have accomplished a good work, the fruits of which will soon be visible. The task is a big one but it is not impossible of accomplishment.

Casper W. Whitney, in the sporting article in Harper's Weekly has some comments to make on Harvard's refusal to ally itself with Yale in an athletic contest against Oxford and Cambridge. One of his sentences is as follows:

Harvard and Yale, do, however, occupy the "prominent position among American universities which is held among English universities by Oxford and Cambridge." Harvard's letter to the contrary notwithstanding, and as such, and for the sake of the lessons in sportsmanship, of which we stand in such sorry need, and which the English are fully qualified to give us, it is indeed too bad that the Englishmen's challenge could not have been received and accepted in the same sportsmanlike spirit in which it was sent.

This admission that Americans are in need of lessons in sportsmanship, and that the English are well qualified to give them, is the best sort of commentary on effusions like those of the Oregonian. It comes from a man who has some idea of sportsmanship and a soul above petty Americanism.

ELECTRIC LIGHT WIRE.

To the Editor:—This morning I called in at the Lansdowne House and the Ald. Partridge gave me the figures the same as he explained them at the council last Monday night. No. 1 circuit, 60,750 feet; No. 2 circuit, 23,000 feet, No. 3 circuit, 63,125 feet; No. 4 circuit, 45,125 feet; No. 5 circuit, 61,000 feet, or 49 miles, and the loops and lamps 3 miles more, equal to 52 miles. Amount of wire purchased, 40½ miles; amount of wire in the old circuit, 15 miles, and loops and lamps, 1¼ miles, total, 56¼ miles. Now, you see that in present use there is but 52 miles, leaving a surplus of 4¼ miles. The new engineer reports but two miles of wire on hand, and with Ald. Partridge I would like to know where the other 2¼ miles of wire have gone. RATEPAYER.

THE KING'S CANNIBALS.

A Pleasant Custom Followed by an African Monarch.

Johnson, in Up the Niger, describing cannibalism, says that the King of Nuppe keeps a set of cannibals in the town of Bidal, to be used on special occasions as instruments of his vengeance. They are not particular, but devour with relish any one whom their king chooses to give them. Even lepers are considered very good eating. Indeed, the natives seem to stop at nothing in these matters, for they even dig up the dead for consumption in some parts. When war is followed by famine it is thought by certain tribes to be a great waste of precious food to bury the dead. What cannot be eaten is dried in the sun and stored, even the bones being used to make soup. If only one could get accustomed to the idea, one could admire the thrift displayed.

Apart from human flesh the Africans do not seem to have any good natural dish. Ants are eaten a good deal, but they do not sound very tempting. However, some Europeans consider them good when once you get accustomed to the idea. They are supposed to taste like "grains of rice fried in delicious fresh oil." These ants are served up in various ways; they can be roasted plain or made into paste, or oil can be made of them; they can also be eaten raw like oysters.

BABEL'S TOWER.

A Model to be Constructed by Scientists for the Atlanta Exposition.

The Smithsonian Institution is preparing a miniature model of the Tower of Babel for the exposition of Atlanta. It will be in all respects, so far as possible, a faithful reproduction of the famous original. The latter was the greatest of the many magnificent temples of Babylon, being 140 feet high. That does not seem much compared with the Washington monument, but people in those days were not accustomed to tall structures, and the ancient capital of Assyria was situated in the midst of a vast plain, where there was no natural elevations to serve for comparison. The model in question will be five feet eight inches square on the first storey. When it is stated that the first storey of the actual tower of Babel was 72 feet square, a notion will be given of the proportion. The original building was constructed in diminishing storeys, each one being a smaller square than that beneath. This was a common style of architecture in Assyria, and from it evolved the Egyptian pyramid. The storeys for the model are square wooden frames of different sizes, so made that they may be superposed one upon another. These frames, after being put together, will be faced on the outside with a veneer of plaster of Paris, which will imitate the sun-dried bricks of which the tower was composed.

The building of the model is under the charge of Dr. Palmer. The work, however, is superintended by Dr. Cyrus Adler, who has made an exhaustive study of the historic Tower of Babel. Mechanically speaking, the most difficult part of the job is the casting of the plaster of Paris that is to imitate the bricks. Every brick on the exterior of the structure is represented, and this is accomplished by making a single mould, in ted. From this mould many casts are made, and so the whole surface is covered. The Babylonians had no stone, and so were obliged to employ for all their buildings such sun-dried bricks. Every brick on the exterior of the tower was made by hand. They did not understand the use of moulds for the purpose. Naturally, structures of such material soon crumbled, and did not last very long.

The Tower of Babel stood upon an elevated platform of earth 600 feet square. This was surmounted and retained by a wall of bricks ten feet high. Both platform and wall will be represented in the model, which will be quite an imposing affair when finished. The storeys will be painted in different colors to imitate the original building, according to descriptions given of it in Assyrian literature. The first storey was black, in honor of Saturn; the second storey orange, for Jupiter; the fourth storey covered with plates of gold, for the sun; the fifth storey white, for Venus; the sixth storey dark blue, for Mercury; and the seventh storey covered with plates of silver, in honor of the moon.

The old Babylonians were worshippers of the sun, and knew a lot about astronomy. The Tower of Babel was an observatory, from which the priests gazed upon the stars in the heavens, drawing portents from them, presumably for sale at so much a portent. The model will have no windows, for it is not known whether or not the original edifice possessed any. Nobody has yet been able to discover how the houses of the Assyrians were lighted. It may be that all the light required for this mighty temple was admitted from the top, which was presumably open to the sky. The stairs were on the outside, and not on the inside of the building. They also will be shown. In fact, no detail will be omitted that may help to give a notion of the exact appearance of this wonderful edifice of antiquity.—Washington Star.

EDITOR KISHIDA.

The Man Who is Known as "Father of the Japanese Press."

The "father" of the Japanese press was a chemist with the name of Kishida Ghinkau. He had been a pirate and a mercenary—a kind of janissary in the service of the old feudality. The revolution of 1868 having put an end to his occupation, he turned his attention once more to study, and became a chemist.

At that time the Japanese traders, not possessing the same opportunities as we have of making their wares known to the public, had little squares of paper printed, "cried" in the streets, and circulated among the inhabitants. Kishida pondered over this, and a happy inspiration came to him. Why not collect all the advertisements on one sheet, sandwiched between items of news, after the manner of the Europeans, and publish it at intervals?

Kishida was a man of action—he had not been a soldier for nothing—and he quickly put his idea into practice. The result was the appearance of the "Moshiwogousse," the title being composed of three words, signifying respectively, "the herbs of the sea," "salt," and "wild herbs."

It is to be presumed that this meant that the journal should contain all sorts of information. The liberty of the press was very restricted, so Kishida had to steer clear of politics; he published items of news about society, sensational trials, the arrival and departure of ships, etc., and (later on) instalments of a novel founded upon Japanese legends. Such was the origin of Japanese journalism.

But Kishida, in spite of his energy and versatility, did not escape the common lot. The "Moshiwogousse" had a hard struggle to keep alive. Instead of appearing regularly two or three times a month as Kishida intended, it appeared very irregularly, its publication depending more upon the financial resources of its proprietor than upon the abundance of "matter."

People were glad to advertise in it, but at a price which was not remunerative, and the general public preferred to borrow rather than buy it. The dispensing room was the editorial sanctum; Kishida prepared prescriptions and composed editorials simultaneously. He worked hard, but the journal was not a success.

At length the soldier-chemist sought the assistance of a few of the chief Japanese traders, who undertook to help; capital swept all the difficulties out of the way, and the journal thenceforward appeared regularly three times a month.

"What did you say that young man's name is?" asked Mabel's father.

"Mr. Isaac Oliver Upton," was the reply.

"Eh? I begin to understand."

"To understand what?"

"A remark that was made about Mr. Upton. I was told that he seldom wrote his name in full; that he usually always used his initials."

—At a joint conference of the mayor and aldermen and property owners along the line of the Johnson street ravine, held last evening, an understanding was arrived at whereby the property owners will bear a share of the expense of putting in a pipe and closing the ravine. There was some discussion during the conference, the mayor opening by referring to the filthy condition of the ravine. Ald. McMillan said the council had the power to close the ravine immediately and charge the cost to the property owners, but they did not want to act arbitrarily. The property owners contended that the city should pay the cost, but a majority finally agreed to bear part of the expense. When some definite scheme has been formulated the mayor will call another meeting.

J. F. Biedsoe, who was in charge of the party representing Mr. Saunders at the Alberni claims, over which there is dispute, arrived in the city to-day. It is understood that the different claimants will try to come to an understanding regarding the matter.

—By order of Hon. Mr. Justice Drake the assets and property of the British Columbia Pottery and Terra Cotta Co. will be sold by auction to-morrow afternoon by the official liquidator. The sale will take place at noon at the office of the company, 44 Government street.

—Advices have been received that the British ship Earl Burgess, 1,609 tons, which is under charter to load lumber at the Hastings mill for the United Kingdom, got ashore at English Bank, Uruguay, and was towed to Montevideo in a leaking condition. She will discharge there for repairs.

—The speedy trial of Tom James, the ex-Indian policeman, charged with stealing $80 from a Neah Bay Indian, resulted in a conviction. The case was concluded late in the afternoon and James was sentenced to six months' imprisonment, the same to date, however, from his arrest. The prisoner was represented by J. P. Walls.

—Although the British ship Thomas Stephens, which left Cardiff over 200 days ago with coal for the navy, has not yet arrived, no anxiety is felt for her, as has been stated. The Stephens put into the Falkland Islands on March 2nd in a disabled condition. She required extensive repairs and as these could not be executed at the islands she was temporarily repaired and made the run to the west coast of Africa, where she now is.

—Thomas S. Burnes, of Victoria, and Miss Agnes Lyons, of San Francisco, were united in marriage in the latter city yesterday morning. St. Dominic's church was the scene of the ceremony and a number of friends of the couple were in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Burnes left San Francisco for Victoria this morning. Thomas S. Burnes is the second son of Thos. J. Burnes, a native of Victoria, and one of the popular young men of the city. His bride is the only daughter of John Lyons, a California pioneer. She has visited Victoria twice in the last couple of years and has many friends here. Mr. and Mrs. Burnes will make Victoria their home.

—Fred Widdowson, second baseman of the Amities, who was injured in yesterday's game, was removed from the club house to his home this morning. Leeches were applied to his neck by Dr. J. D. Helmcken last night, and Robert Foster and W. G. Lorimer sat by his bedside all night. This morning he was much better, and the doctor says he will be all right in a few days. There was a local physician in the crowd yesterday, and for failing to go on the grounds when asked he was severely censured by those around him.

—At the hearing of Frank Larkin, charged with being a habitual frequenter of houses of ill-fame, in police court this morning, his wife gave testimony and it was evident that she had repented about having her husband arrested. She could not remember any of the damaging statements she made to the police, swore that her husband had worked and that he supported her. Another loophole to help Larkin escape was that he lives all the time in the house kept by his wife on Chatham street and it could not be shown that he went to other houses. The court dismissed the charge.

—The Gazette announces the following appointments: Joseph D. Graham, of Revelstoke, to be gold commissioner for that portion of the West Kootenay electoral district contained within the Revelstoke, Illecillewaet, Lardeau and Trout lake mining divisions; Napoleon Fitzstubbs, of Nelson, to be gold commissioner for that portion of West Kootenay electoral district contained within the Ainsworth, Slocan, Nelson, Trail Creek and Goat river mining divisions, in lieu of his appointment for the whole of the said electoral district; Hugh Wart, of the 150-Mile House, a coroner and a justice of the peace within and for the Cariboo electoral district, to be coroner and a justice of the peace within and for the country of Cariboo; Farquhar Macrae, of the city of Victoria, esquire, B.M., to be a notary public within and for the province of British Columbia.

THE NORTHWEST REGATTA

Oarsmen Have Some Choppy Weather to Contend Against in Practice.

James Bays Break a Seat Giving Junior Four-Oared Race to Vancouver.

The oarsmen and their friends were a religious lot this morning. They were praying for smooth water on Esquimalt harbor to give an opportunity to pull off the junior race and the other events on the day's card. They prayed with a fervor perhaps worthy of a more righteous cause, but pray they did. The oarsmen were out early this morning, as men in training never do sleep late. The last practice spins were taken this morning, but the course opposite the mouth of the harbor was pretty choppy and the Seattle shell had a consignment of water aboard when she finished. The Seattles complain a little themselves about their shell, and if that is to prove a hindrance it is too bad, for they are four likely oarsmen. Any number of people who have seen them fancy their work. Every crew has been over the course at least twice now, and they all know it pretty well. There is a spirit of keen rivalry between the two junior Vancouver crews and they each came to this afternoon's meeting with a dogged determination to win. They did not seem to think so much of beating the James Bays as the "other fellows" from Vancouver. Esquimalt had an interesting look this morning. Great strong, brawny oarsmen, all showing the colors of their respective clubs, lounged around and talked race. The regatta was on everybody's lips. The correspondents were around getting tips and points and an artist was sketching quarters, course and some of the crews for American papers.

The Vancouver boat last night and the Sound steamers this morning brought a number of visitors who came especially to see the races. They nearly all had favorites, whose colors they displayed.

JUNIOR FOUR-OARED.

The junior four-oared race was won by the Vancouver crew in 10:45¾, beating the Burrard Inlet crew by about seven lengths. At the start it looked very much as though the James Bays would win, but Bolton, the stroke, broke his seat, which placed them in a hopeless position. They were leading by a length and a half at the time. The course was very choppy and the Burrard crew shipped a lot of water.

Law Intelligence.

The full court is to-day hearing the plaintiff's appeal in Slade v. Sargent. The plaintiff purchased from the defendant certain lands in Westminster district, and the defendant agreed with the plaintiff to clear one acre of the lands purchased. The defendant cleared certain lands contiguous to that of the plaintiff and he represented to the plaintiff that the clearing was wholly upon plaintiff's property. The plaintiff erected a dwelling house, store and outbuildings upon the clearing, believing that in doing so she was building upon her property. The defendant, after the completion of the buildings, demanded from the plaintiff rent for the land upon which the plaintiff had built, and he also required the plaintiff to move off the place, who thereupon sued for damages. The case was tried before Mr. Justice Drake without a jury on the 26th of November last, and his lordship gave judgment decreeing that the defendant should convey to the plaintiff the lands so built upon. The plaintiff claims $1,000 besides and now appeals. Charles Wilson, Q.C., and L. P. Eckstein for appellant and L. P. Duff for respondent.

The divisional court to-morrow will hear the plaintiff's appeal in Beer v. London & Canadian Fire Insurance Co. The appeal is for an order for a commissioner to take evidence in Halifax.

CABLE DISPATCHES.

The Murder at Plaistow Attracting Unusual Attention.

London, July 19.—The murder of Mrs. Coombs has caused a great excitement in the neighborhood of Plaistow and is attracting much attention everywhere on account of the horrible details connected with it. The two boys were brought up in the court this afternoon and told the whole story to the magistrate who examined them.

Cardinal Gibbons and Mgr. Foley have arrived at Cologne.

Berne, Switzerland, July 19.—Charles Emanuel Schenck, the distinguished Swiss politician, died yesterday from the result of injuries sustained in a runaway accident on July 8.

Brussels, July 18.—There was an unparalleled scene in the chamber of deputies yesterday. During the discussion of the new education bill, M. Burlet, the premier, said that he pitied parents who allowed their children to "wallow in the slough of atheism." This remark brought forth a torrent of invectives from the socialists against the ministers and insulting expressions passed between them and the bench. In fact personal violence was only averted by the hurried adjournment of the session.

Madrid, July 19.—Advices from Havana state that Gen. Campos has arrived at Rayemo from Manzanillo. He has concentrated the troops in that district and is continuing operations against the insurgents. Col. Satoclides, the Spanish commander who has taken such an active part in the operations against the insurgents in Santiago de Cuba, has been killed in a skirmish between Bayamo and Manzanillo. The American citizens, Vargas and Ruiz, who have been under arrest in Cuba under suspicion of being dangerous characters, have been released on their agreement to quit Cuba immediately.

Kustendji, Roumania, July 19.—The whole of the Malesh district of Macedonia north of Strumnitza, is in the hands of the insurgents. The bridges across the river Struma have been demolished.

JAPANESE CUT TO PIECES.

A Japanese Squadron Almost Annihilated at Formosa.

Yokohama, July 19.—An official dispatch received here from the Island of Formosa says that after the capture of Lung Taup on June 14 an attempt was made to effect a junction between the two Japanese battalions at the river Taku Kau, but the attempt failed and a squadron of Japanese cavalry, which was suddenly attacked by a superior force of Chinese, was cut to pieces, only three troopers escaping. A junction of the two battalions was, however, effected on July 16th.

ALL AROUND AFRICA.

Circumnavigation is Now Quite Easy—Steamer Service.

The "Dark Continent" has changed, and changed vastly since Stanley's time. Much of the mystery which enveloped it has gone down before civilization and daring explorers. To-day it is possible to completely circumnavigate Africa with such guidance as can be found on the way. This is shown by Frank Vincent in his new book, "Actual Africa, or the Coming Continent."

The whole coast can be gone around, says Mr. Vincent, and with the exception of one portion of the route, steamer service can be found. It is a right royal trip to take, too, varied with the ever-changing scenes. In Morocco the traveler can make up a caravan with all accompaniments of horses, camels, camel drivers, donkeys, donkey-boys, soldiers with their matchlocks, mules, muleteers and cooks. In Algeria and Tunis travel is almost as convenient as in Europe, thanks to the French.

On the Nile are the sailboats, or "dahabeahs," so oft described under a confusing variety of names by a vast host of writers. Besides, the river is excellently furnished with fairly good steamers. Not until Madagascar is reached do the difficulties commence. Then it is you have a taste of primitive travel. Boats manned by the islanders gather all around the steamer, and the passenger is taken as near to the shore as possible in them. There is neither pier nor landing stage, so the visitor is generally carried ashore upon the backs of the sun-browned natives.

The principal city is Tamatave, and well worth a visit. There are a few European merchants, surrounded by crowds of light-hearted, laughing, chattering and indolent natives. At night the quaint, narrow streets are dark and black. Each man who walks carries a lantern, and those who can afford it ride. There are very few horses there, and no wheeled vehicles worthy of mention.

The roads in the interior are mere narrow paths, beaten down by ages of trampling, but without a pretence of leveling or grading. In many places they are impassable, even for a sure-footed mule.

The way for a white man to get about is to hire native bearers at about $2 a month, who carry him in a filanzana. This consists of two slender poles strong enough to bear a man's weight framed together with two iron rods. On iron rods in the middle of the framework is fastened a sort of chair, below which a footrest swings by cords. The bearers, four in number, trot at a good gait all day long, changing at intervals with others who accompany them for that purpose. Fresh bearers take the place of the wearied ones without a pause.

The filanzana is an exceedingly comfortable affair, and it yet remains for a vehicle to be invented that will compare with it for sight-seeing. The rider rarely has occasion to notice where his bearers are going. They know their way, and they press onward persistently, and he can devote his whole attention to the changing scene through which he passes.

In Zanzibar, which boasts cosmopolitan usages as well as cosmopolitan population, the English dog-cart is a favorite vehicle. Thanks to the Arabs, horses are numerous. But in the narrow, crooked streets one goes afoot, picking one's steps at night by the light of lamps suspended from brackets on the walls of the houses. In Bagamoyo there used to be just one carriage, the property of a Parsee merchant, and just one road to drive it upon.

The height of courtesy in this outpost of the German power is to invite a stranger to drive in the carriage along the road, which skirts the bay, passes through a large cocoanut plantation and then between rows of mango trees to a French Catholic mission. The carriage, a victoria, has a coachman who is picturesque enough in a livery of blue, faced with glowing red. In Mozambique the favorite vehicle is called a machilla. It is simply an oblong, cane-seated chair, or lounge, swung by ropes from a long bamboo pole and covered by a canvas awning.

Instead of sitting high above the shoulders of the bearers, as in Bagamoyo car, the traveler will find himself in Mozambique swinging just above the ground in a half recumbent position. But he will see beautiful streets, thoroughly un-Oriental in their cleanliness. In Lorenzo Marques there is a railway, which is to be extended to the Boer capital, Pretoria; in Durban the modern Japanese jinrikisha, usually called a "rickshaw," is regularly placed for hire.

As you proceed to Capetown the means of locomotion approach more and more closely to the standard of civilization. Cabs and double-decked street cars in Johannesberg whisked by the famous Boer wagons with their long lines of oxen. Boer drivers are fond of long teams. One of the most interesting rides to be had in Africa is that by coach from Charlestown to Johannesberg. The coach was made in Concord, N. H., but in its native land it would never have demanded eight mules and a pair of horses.

In Natal and the Transvaal this is, if anything, a meagre number. Mules are only used in the difficult parts of the road; on the pleasanter stretches they are replaced by horses. It takes two men to drive this ten-horse team. The driver holds two pairs of reins, the short pair attached to the bits of the wheelers, the others stretching out to the leaders, but branching to each horse in the team. His sole task is to guide the animals. Beside him sits the conductor, armed with a whip, the bamboo handle of which is about 12 feet long, and the leather lash at least twenty feet.

The tipoya is another curious vehicle. It is a species of palanquin, but peculiar in that it is even more troublesome for a sightseer and more a cause of interest than the machilla of Mozambique. It consists of a hammock swung from a single bamboo pole, and carried by two men. The only thing one can do in this case is to sleep, for there is no chance to see anything. They are always provided with a pillow.

This tipoya is characteristic of Angola, and the natives who carry it have their own little peculiarities. In Madagascar the natives will carry you up hill and down and never once complain. Not in Angola, at every trivial ascent your bearer stops, and there is but one thing to do—dismount and walk. The bearers wear nothing but a waistcloth, through which is stuck a huge wooden spoon, a pipe and a tobacco pouch. As they walk they sing in alternating fashion, or respond with rythmical grunts.

A similar hammock, with some artistic additions, is also favored in Maderia. But the strange vehicle of the latter place is the carro, drawn by bullocks. It is a sled with a covered body and two transverse seats, the occupants of which face each other. The sledge is shod sometimes with iron and sometimes with wood. This apparently clumsy machine is better adapted to the conditions of the place than might be supposed. The stone used for the street pavements is a kind of pumice, which becomes very slippery with use, and the sledge moves as easily as over snow. Still, life must be long in Maderia to make travel in a carro agreeable.

A thousand and one other things might be said of this strange country, and yet the story would be untold. There is its flora and fauna, its geology, its ethnology, its folk lore, its international relations and its inhabitants. There are many tribes who have seldom seen a white man. The steamboat with its whistle, its occasional ebullitions of steam and its power of making headway against a strong current, is a perpetual wonder to them. They will troop along the banks, days together, trying to imitate the motion of the wheel and such parts of the engine as they can see, shouting and gesticulating like children. At times they have lined the river banks in multitudes. Their rude collections of huts are sometimes found to have the dimensions and populousness of cities. To many of them weapons more deadly than bows and poisoned arrows are apparently unknown. Their rude agriculture and woodcraft have left field and forest in a primitive state, and yet the country supports its millions. What it will be made to do when civilization has really taken hold upon it can only be imagined.

TAXES PAID IN ITALY.

Heavy Enough to be a Burden on the Poor Who Have to Pay Them.

In Italy any unfortunate who owes 10 per cent. finds his little debt run up by sheriffs' officers, tribunal expenses and all the manifold charges of notaries, attorneys and advocates to 200 per cent. before he has time to breathe or realize the situation, and the forced sales are so conducted that the property sold produces nothing for anyone except the state and the auctioneers, says Ouida in the Fortnightly Review. The state takes its percentage first, before even the creditors, and thus is caused the avidity with which all state officials and myrmidons drag to ruin, by intrigue and extortion, a large majority of the tax-paying public. Note the salaries paid to the officials of the tribunals in Italy and judge if such officials are not invited and forced to ruin the mass of the people.

Where a county judge in England has £1000 or £2000 a year he receives here the equivalent of £40, or perhaps £30, per annum. All the lesser functionaries are paid in proportion. The Giudice Conciliatoire, who answers to the Juge de la Paix in France and to the police magistrate in England, is paid sometimes at the rate of £20 per annum, sometimes not at all; the pockets of the appelants at his court must maintain him. It can readily be understood that all these hungry functionaries of the law, big and little, live on the public perforce, and that almost any iniquity or injustice may be obtained under this rule if money be largely enough and secretly enough expended. "Your splendor is my dishonor," said Bacon to his magnificent liveried serving men, who rose to meet him when he entered court to stand upon his trial.

The Italian functionaries may say to the Italian Themis: "That we have coats to our backs and rings on our fingers is your dishonor, for you do not pay us enough to get either honestly." Notwithstanding this miserable pay which they receive, Italy spends on the administration of law 135,000,000 francs—i.e., 7,000,000 francs more than France (in comparison to the population) and 12,000,000 francs more than England. The public which contributes all these millions gets little or nothing for its money.

NANAIMO.

Nanaimo, July 19.—A miner named H. McSwayne was seriously injured in No. 5 shaft yesterday. McSwayne's duty is to attend to the switching of cars on the bottom of an incline and while doing so a car came away from the top. McSwayne did not hear it coming and the consequence was that it struck him with great force and knocked him violently against the wrattice, cutting his head open and otherwise bruising him, so that he now lies in a critical condition.

Mr. D. Christie Murray will lecture in the opera house on Tuesday night. As a rule lectures are poorly attended by the citizens, but every endeavor will be made by local parties to bring a big audience together.

Ex-Priest J. B. Daly will occupy the pulpit of Wallace street Methodist church on Sunday night.

ROSSLAND.

Rossland Miner.

The first session of a civil court of justice ever called in Rossland was held last Tuesday by Judge Spinks. The dining room of the Howard hotel was used as a courtroom. As no human being except a lawyer is tough enough to stand the atmosphere of the court room during its whole session, a detailed report of the proceedings is not obtainable. There were no important points in mining law brought up and not a single decision was given. In each case judgment was either reserved or after proceedings had reached a certain stage the cases were settled out of court.

On Monday last Tom Burke was overcome by the effects of foul air while ascending the manway of the War Eagle shaft, and fell down 70 feet into the shaft. The doctor was sent for and he found no bones broken and no symptoms of serious internal injury. In three days Burke was walking around the streets of Rossland. He was probably saved through being unconscious when he fell. The shaft is an incline, which helps to explain this extraordinary escape.

The Gem, Uncle Sam and the Tiger have joined the majority of the great group of claims in the south belt and have been sold, it is said, for $125,000. The deal was closed yesterday by P. Genelle, acting on telegraphic instructions from A. E. Humphreys. It is said that Finch and Campbell still retain their one-quarter interest. These mines were located in April by Cromie and Coffee, who were prospecting for Finch and Campbell and Brig Atkinson respectively. There is a good showing of ore on the Gem, on which the most development work has been done.

For the first half of July the shipments have been 1410 tons, valued at $66,615. The Le Roi has put out 771 tons, the War Eagle 615 tons.

The miners' union in Trail Creek has made a successful start. Over two hundred names of working miners were given in at the meeting for membership.

There is more activity in building in Rossland at the present time than since the town started to grow.

A school, a government office and a church are three buildings of which Rossland, although the largest, wealthiest and most populous town in Kootenay is still deficient. Rossland's growth has outstripped the enterprise of the government, which is not remarkable; it has also outstripped the machinery for providing education for some fifty children, which is disgraceful, and it has outstripped the religious zeal of the sects, which is a most wonderful thing.

The following was the output of the mines:

NELSON.

Nelson Tribune.

The management of the Hall Mines, Limited, is getting a move on. The right of way for the tramway is practically cleared, and the tramway is to be completed and in operation on or before September 5th. Two ore bins, one of a capacity of 7,000 tons and the other of a capacity of 500 tons, are to be built. Excavations for the foundations of the 7,000-ton one, which is to be built at Nelson, are now under way. Both diamond drills are to be at work next week on the Silver King-Kootenay Bonanza ground, and as soon as additional rods are received from Chicago, a drill hole will go down to a depth of 1,000 feet. While it is not given out officially, it can be said with a certainty, that a smelter will be built at Nelson this year; if it is not built by the Hall Mines Ltd., then it will be built by a company who will have a contract for the Hall Mines ore.

About 8,000 yards of gravel and boulders have been moved so far this season at Forty-Nine creek by the Nelson Hydraulic Company. It is estimated that the monitors were worked 120 hours in all. The dust of the first clean up was melted into bricks at the Poorman mill, and the bricks are now on exhibition at the Bank of British Columbia. The value of the bricks is more than enough to pay for all the money expended on plant and wages this year, which is as much as can be said for either of the great hydraulic mines in California.

The Queen of the Vale hydraulic works will be started up again in the fore part of the week. Enough "dry" ore is in sight to keep the smelter in operation continuously.

The Tribune of the 13th gives the output of the mines as follows:

	Tons.	Value.
Trail Creek mines.....	683	$34,150
Little Phil, Ainsworth Creek..	20	1,000
Total for week.....	703	$35,750

The Kaslo & Slocan railway is going to be a formidable competitor of the railway from Nelson to Three Forks, which was built at the expense of the province and turned over to the Canadian Pacific. Surveys have already been made for an extension from Sandon to Four-mile creek, and it is said that the survey will be extended south to the foot of Slocan lake, thence to Nelson by way of Slocan river.

A packing box that has traveled thousands of miles is on exhibition at Turner & Kirkpatrick's store in Nelson. The box is made of white pine and branded on one end, "Pearl Oil. Put up expressly for the Queensland market." The box had evidently been shipped from New York city to Brisbane, Australia, thence back to Vancouver with the two tins of "Yaun's Honey" which were in it when it arrived at Nelson. Lumber must be scarce in Queensland.

KASLO.

It is reported on the street that a movement is on foot to prepare the way for the submission to the people of another tax exemption by-law in favor of the Kaslo & Slocan railway. It is thought that the ratepayers would consider favorably a by-law making reasonable concessions to the railway, if the matter was fairly placed before them. The understanding, however, must be plain and clear.

It is reported that an energetic young citizen contemplates starting the publication of a newspaper in Kaslo in the immediate future.

Charles Pollitt, superintendent of the Kaslo & Slocan railway, states that the men employed on the work (including tie and bridge men) number one thousand; and that more than half of the thirty miles is in shape.

VANCOUVER.

By the Empress of China which sailed for the Orient on Monday went a party of 18 skilled watchmakers, picked from the various manufacturing establishments in the States. They have a three years' contract with the Japanese government to work in a watch factory to be established at Osaka, of which F. H. Wheeler, of the Ota Watch company, of California, is to be superintendent. Under the contract they are not to be obliged to teach or work with Japanese workmen during the term named, but at its conclusion the employers are to be free to employ as many Japanese as they may desire. The men are to receive wages considerably in advance of those paid on this continent. Most of them left their families on this side of the Pacific and expect to return upon the expiration of the contract.

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed an exhibit at the World's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the World's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."

A Delightful Trip.

Intending passengers should consider the advisability of making their journey to eastern points in Canada and the United States via the Great Northern Railway to Duluth and thence via the magnificent new passenger steamers Northwest and Northland of the Northern Steamship Company, which are now in commission and making semi-weekly trips between Duluth and Buffalo, calling at intermediate lake ports. By taking this route all dust and excessive heat are avoided and a charming trip through the most beautiful lake scenery is made in superb floating palaces on which no freight whatever is carried. For full particulars apply to H. Martin, 75 Government street, general agent of the Great Northern Railway.

HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY.

Report of the Governor and Committee to the Annual Meeting.

Following is the annual report of the governor and committee presented to the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Hudson's Bay Company on the 15th instant:—

The governor and committee have now to submit to the proprietors the annual accounts, which show a profit of £60,275 14s. 7d., to which must be added £25,029 5s. 9d. brought forward from last year, making a total of £85,305 0s. 4d. Out of this sum they recommend a dividend of 12s. per share, free of income tax, which will absorb £60,000, leaving the sum of £25,305 0s. 4d. to be carried forward.

The quantity of furs sold by the company in January and March last was about the same as that sold in 1894. The improvement in prices, indicated in the last report as probable, was realized this spring, and although the value of some furs declined, the majority of the changes showed an improvement upon the low prices of last year, the principal advances being in marten, mink, lynx and white fox.

The information so far received from the company's trading posts encourages the hope that the quantity of furs to be imported before next year's sales may not fall short of the average. It is satisfactory to know that most of the furs traded by the company continue in fair demand, and should the general improvement in business continue and extend, satisfactory prices may be looked for at the next sales.

The land account gives the cash receipts and disbursements of the land department for the year ended March 31st, 1895, and it will be seen that receipts from instalments, interest on sales, rents, etc., amount to £18,479 0s. 9d.; this compares with £28,849 7s. 9d. received in the preceding year.

The sales have been—farm lands, 4431 acres for $23,209 (averaging $5.24 per acre); town lots, 126 lots for $37,324, total $60,533, as compared with last year—farm lands, 7526 acres for $48,225 (averaging $6.40 per acre); town lots, 79 lots for $38,585, total $86,810.

The low price of wheat and the general depression affecting all agricultural interests alluded to in the last report, prevailed in even a greater degree during the past year, and together with the decrease of immigration operated most forcibly in reducing the sales of land and the collection of instalments. It is, however, satisfactory to be able to state that the collection of interest on unpaid instalments has, in spite of the drawbacks above enumerated, been fairly good, and does not show a large falling off in comparison with the preceding year.

The general trade of the company has also been adversely affected by the great commercial depression which has existed in Canada and the United States, but present advices point to the prospects of a good harvest and to a general revival of trade throughout the country.

It will be noticed that the number of accounts has been reduced from six to three. This simplification has been made possible by the arrangement lately carried out between the company and the officers, which obviates any further necessity for keeping the fur trade accounts separate from the general accounts of the company.

Owing to this alteration the charge of interest hitherto made against the fur trade for capital advanced can no longer be made. The result is that this year's accounts suffer to the extent of £10,026 19s. 4d., this being the amount which would have been credited in the regular course for interest on capital advanced to the fur trade. Having in view the exceptional circumstances of the case, the board have not thought it right that the whole of this sum should be charged against the profit of the year, and they have therefore taken £10,000 from the insurance and reserve fund, thereby reducing the sum chargeable against profit and loss to £26 19s. 4d.

The insurance and reserve fund above alluded to has been created by the amalgamation of the fur trade fire insurance fund and the marine insurance fund, and now stands at £60,000.

The Earl of Lichfield, deputy governor, and Mr. Alderman Vaughan Morgan, are the members of the board retiring on this occasion, and being eligible, offer themselves for re-election.

Mr. Thomas A. Welton also offers himself for re-election as auditor.

The Vancouvers Beaten by the Amities Yesterday by a Score of 28 to 20.

Progress of the Saratoga Regatta —The Trial Race of the Defender.

The Amities beat the Vancouvers at Caledonia Park yesterday afternoon by a score of 28 to 20 in the worst exhibition of the game ever seen here. Time and again the Vancouver players went completely to pieces and could not stop balls thrown underhand. The Amities, too, forgot how to play at times and managed to pile up nine errors, some of which were very costly. However, there was some good free hitting and streaks of brilliant playing here and there on both sides. The much-talked-of Donovan was wild and erratic and only lasted six innings. He was hit very hard. Turner, who took his place, was batted out of the box, and Myers came in from second and finished the game. For Victoria Schultz pitched a masterly game for five innings. He struck out nine men and kept the runs down. In the sixth, however, he was hit, and that combined with fielding and throwing errors gave Vancouver six runs. Lenfesty was substituted and was wild and unsteady. Nine runs were made off him in the last two innings.

Features of the game were the sky balls batted before the contest by Geo. Russell and the playing of Duck. The latter got a triple and two doubles at bat and shut two men out at the plate from deep left. It was a great day for Duck. Donovan fielded his position well, and Catcher Craig, of the Vancouvers, is an earnest, hard-working player. Franklin caught and hit well, and Jackson got in a couple of his wonderful throws across the diamond.

A very unfortunate accident occurred in the sixth, when Widdowson was struck on the head by a ball thrown from the field by George Gowen. It struck him with terrific force, knocking him senseless. He was carried from the field after being restored, and remained all night in charge of Bob Foster. His physician deemed it unsafe to have him moved.

The score was as follows:

THE RIFLE.

GRAPHIC CUP.

London, July 19.—Watts, of the Royal Scots, won the Daily Graphic cup at Bisley to-day.

Sergeant McNeill, of the King's Own Borderers, won the St. George's competition with a score of 113.

THE WHEEL.

MANHATTAN PARK.

New York, July 19.—Professional cycle racing will be revived at Manhattan Park to-morrow. All the big professionals have entered save Johnson and Keene. Some exciting competitions are expected. Walter Sanger will be a starter in several events. In addition to cash prize events there will be two races for class B riders.

THE RING.

CORBETT-FITZSIMMONS.

Dallas, Tex., July 19.—Galveston wishes the Fitzsimmons glove contest pulled off on that island. President Stewart, of the Florida Athletic Club, said the Galveston proposition was a liberal one, including building and grounds, and he would go there on Saturday to see about it. There is strong opposition to the fight at Dallas and threats have been made to stop the construction of the amphitheatre by an injunction as soon as it begins.

THE TURF.

SANDOWN PARK.

London, July 19.—The Sandown Park second summer Eclipse meeting opened to-day. In the chief event, the Eclipse stakes, over a course of about a mile and a quarter, Baron Schickler's Justicia won; Whittier second; Nolle the Wiser third.

AQUATIC.

SARATOGA REGATTA.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 19.—In the first race yesterday the Toronto and Rat Portage crews were the first at the course and rowed aimlessly about while waiting for the umpire's boat to come down from Snake Hill, three miles up the lake. The Harlem crew was third out. It was 15 minutes after three when the referee's boat was started and the shot was fired. The Harlems caught the water first, Toronto rowing 38, the Rat Portage 40 and the Harlems 36. At the half the Torontos were slightly ahead and were followed closely by Rat Portage and the Harlems. The Torontos started to turn first, the Harlems second, and the Rat Portage third. The Torontos straightened out for the home first with the Harlems close behind. When the mile was reached the crews were bunched, with the Torontos half a length ahead and the other Canadians a length in the rear. Just past the flag Rat Portage spurted, and, at the mile and one-eighth, increased their stroke, forging a little ahead of the Harlem crew.

The New Yorkers were rowing beautifully, but in the Toronto crew Ryan, who was not in good form, was splashing badly. At the stretch the Harlems and Rat Portage were on almost equal terms. The latter spurted, but the New Yorkers were game and crossed the line half a length ahead. Hawkins dropped over in the boat exhausted, while Nagle splashed him with water. The Torontos were about four lengths behind in crossing the line. Time, 8:43.

Intermediate singles—Jury caught the water first in the intermediate singles race and though Fisher, of the Varunas, nearly caught a crab the first time his blade struck the water, he went on evenly. At the half the Toronto man was leading with the Riverside a close second, while Fisher had fallen to the rear about two lengths. Hobbs, though pulling a slow stroke, kept close to Jury, and just before the turn Fisher rowed over into the Riverside rower's water. Jury went wide of his buoy and Hobbs turned an instant sooner round the buoy. Jury, however, straightened out first for home and Hobbs, who was rattled, rowed across Jury's track, fouling him for a moment. Neither men stopped, however, but Jury forced the little Massachusetts man over to the other shore. Fisher, in the meantime, was rowing steadily, pulling a straight course. At the mile Jury was two lengths ahead of Hobbs, who was away off his course to the legt of Jury's water. All the men were spent and pulled listlessly. At the finish Jury spurted a little and crossed the line fully five lengths ahead of Fisher, who had pulled a half a length ahead of Hobbs. Time, 10:30.

In the intermediate doubles the Dauntless crew did not come to the line, and at the shot the Harlems caught the water first and pulled two lengths ahead before the eighth of a mile was reached, rowing 38 strokes to the Crescents' 37 and Institutes' 39.

At the quarter the Harlems were a boat length ahead of the Institutes. At the three-quarters it was a procession, the Harlems, Institutes and Crescents about three lengths apart in this order. At the stake the Crescents turned first, with the Harlems in their wake, the Institutes third. At the mile the Crescents were ahead, while the Harlems had dropped back of the Institutes. At the mile and a quarter the Institutes spurted and made up some of the distance. In the finish the Institutes increased their stroke, but the Crescents worked hard and came across three-quarters of a length ahead, winning in 9:24½.

Senior four-oared shells—But two crews, the Winnipegs and the Institutes, started in the senior fours. The Winnipegs caught the water first, rowing a 40 stroke to the 39 of the Institutes. At the half the Winnipegs had a slight lead, increasing it a little as they neared the three-quarters, when they had forged a length ahead. The Winnipegs made the turn first and straightened out for home a couple of seconds ahead of the Institutes. At the mile the Institutes had crawled up a trifle on their opponents, both rowing about 40. At the mile and a quarter the Institutes had made up their loss and worked their shell ahead of the Winnipegs. Coming into the finish the Institutes increased their lead to about a length, pulling a long, clean stroke. In the last eighth the Institutes captured the angle and swept across the line, despite the terrific 44 stroke of the Winnipegs, a scant five feet ahead in 8:43½.

Senior singles—final heat—By the time this heat had started the breeze had entirely died away and the water was without a ripple. McDowell was the last man to reach the starting line, but caught the water first. Rumohr was pulling a stroke of 38, while his opponents were at 36. At the eighth Rumohr had half a length lead over Hackett and a quarter over McDowell. At the half Hackett had dropped back two lengths and McDowell had taken a lead away from Rumohr. Before the turn McDowell was steering the best course and rowing a 38 stroke with Rumohr, while Hackett was pulling a lifeless oar of about 34 strokes to the minute. The men were wild on their stakes, and had to make long detours. Rumohr and Hackett started to turn the same flag, and the former, seeing his fault, crossed to his own stake. Hackett fouled him and put a hole in his boat and Rumohr went ashore. McDowell in the meantime was well started on his way home, with Hackett slightly in the rear. The latter had from the turn a perfectly straight course and after the stake crept up on McDowell, until at the mile he had shown his stern by a length. Hackett seemed as fresh as at the start, while McDowell was pulling with evident effort. Hackett crossed the line four lengths ahead of McDowell. A protest was entered, and the regatta committee disqualified Hackett and ordered the race rowed over by McDowell and Rumohr.

Senior eight-oared shells—As the Minnesota eight pulled out from the shore at 4:40 o'clock not a breath of air stirred the lake surface. Wachusetts at the last hour decided not to enter for the senior eight, contenting themselves with their victory in the junior eight on Wednesday. The interest in this race was great and the bets numerous. All three crews had proved themselves invincible in their own waters and consequently were equal favorites. It was ten minutes after schedule time when the crews started. The Tritons were rowing 40 to the minute, the Minnesotas 39 and the first Bohemians 43. At the half mile it was a glorious race. All crews pulled evenly and the Bohemians had a lead of but slight consequence. At the three-quarters the Minnesotas had dropped a little behind while the Tritons had forged ahead. At the finish, however, the Bohemian crossed the line before the Tritons, while the Minnesota bow bobbed a dangerous third. The time was 7:39½, and it was one of the best eight-oared races ever seen in this country, not ten feet dividing the crews at the finish and not clear water between them.

The regatta programme was completed this morning by rowing the deciding heat in the senior single sculls by J. A. Rumohr, Toronto rowing club, and A. S. McDowell, Deleware, R.C., Chicago. The weather was fine and the water a trifle lumpy. At the signal both caught water at the same time, but at the half mile McDowell quickened his stroke and forged ahead. Chicago was first to make the turn, but on straightening out for home the Canadian spurted and for a half mile the contestants were on even terms. At the finish the Chicago man increased his stroke and led his competitor across the finish line by two lengths. Time, 9:50.

YACHTING.

TRYING THE DEFENDER.

New York, July 18.—The races to be sailed off the lightships to-morrow and Monday will be the first real trials between the Vigilant and the new sloop Defender, which is looked upon at present as being in all probability the yacht to uphold America's yachting honors in the race with the Valkyrie III. It was learned that the new boat was remarkably quick in stays and even with her enormous spread of canvas and tremendously long main boom is remarkably stiff. The general public is as much in the dark as ever regarding her true form. The races to-morrow will therefore be the first opportunity of getting a "line" on the real merits of the new boat. Two races are to be sailed under the auspices of the New York Yacht Club over a course outside of Sandy Hook. A cup valued at $200 is offered for the winner, and a hundred dollars and a cup for the second if four or more start.

The dimensions of the Defender, as exact as can be obtained, since the committee refuse to make public her measurement, are: Length over all 126 feet 6 inches, beam 26 feet, draught 19 feet, load water line 90 feet. Total sail area about 13,000 square feet. As there has been scarcely a day within the past week by some new measurements, said to be correct once, for spars, have been mentioned, it is scarcely worth while publishing their several lengths, except of the new main boom, which is to be 107 feet long, five feet longer than the one now in use. The outfit of sails is most liberal, no less than four mainsails being supplied for her. The sails are all made with cloths running from luff to lee and are of duck especially woven for that purpose. If the Defender should fail to prove the success expected she will at least stand as a splendid monument to American sportsmanship.

THE AILSA WINS.

Bangor, Ireland, July 19.—In foggy, rainy weather, and with a moderate breeze, the Ailsa and Britannia started in a race this morning from Carrick. The Britannia crossed the line at 12.21.30 and Ailsa at 12.24.27. The Ailsa began gaining on the Britannia from the send off, and eventually finished three minutes ahead of the Prince of Wales' cutter.

THE GUN.

IMPORTED PARTRIDGES.

Returns have been received from two of the district farmers to whom were given partridge eggs imported by the Victoria gun club. Two sittings of English partridge eggs given to a gentleman at Cedar Hill did not hatch, but a sitting of French eggs, set by a resident of Saanich, turned out splendidly. Out of twelve eggs eleven were hatched, but one bird has died since. The others are big and strong. If only given a chance the birds will multiply very quickly.

LACROSSE.

WILL PLAY THE SERIES.

The Maple Leaf lacrosse team of New Westminster, though two of their team have joined the seniors, and two others have gone to work in the canneries, have decided to play the matches out that have been arranged for.

SUICIDE IN PARIS.

A New York Jeweler Commits Suicide in the French Capital.

Paris, July 19.—Clarence W. Sedgwick, a manufacturing jeweler, residing at 640 Madison avenue, New York, and doing business at 21 East Twentieth street in the same city, committed suicide yesterday evening by cutting his throat with a razor at his lodging in Rue Bergere. Life was extinct when the suicide was discovered. He arrived here from London on Monday last and began squandering money in cafes and other places, his conduct causing such a scandal that he was turned out of two hotels. He returned to his lodgings yesterday evening in an alarming state of intoxication, telling the interpreter to return in an hour. In the meantime he committed suicide. The room in which he was found presented a horrible sight. The fatal blow had evidently been struck while he was lying on the bed, from whence he staggered about the room, the blood spurting from his neck all over the furniture and walls. A paper found on his body enabled the police to establish his identity. The sum of 15,000 francs was found upon his person.

CURED BY TAKING

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as as ever they were. My business, which is that of a cab-driver, requires me to be out in cold and wet weather, often without gloves, but the trouble has never returned."—THOMAS A. JOHNS, Stratford, Ont.
